Sleeping well to Work Safely

An IOSH approved training course by Sleep Unlimited Ltd.

Sleep Unlimited's fully qualified team use only evidence-based methods – and our REST Programme® training uses Cognitive Behavioural Therapy for insomnia (CBTI) – the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) recommended guidelines for treating insomnia disorders.

The programme:

A day long course which has been designed for anyone working globally who may be experiencing or supporting employees with sleep problems. Effective and efficient learning basics covered in a single programme – no previous knowledge around the subject of sleep is required.

The course presents case examples from a range of people who have experienced disturbed sleep as a result of work-related stress, shift-working, working in safety critical environments and those experiencing jet lag (as well as normal groups and those presenting with primary insomnia).

- A day long, online interactive course, facilitated by a Sleep Doctor
- Informal, entertaining and thought-provoking training, with clear examples
- Workbooks supplied to support attendees with the implementation of learning
- Evaluation using a short question paper and a follow up risk assessment in the workplace (to be completed within a month of the training).
- IOSH Sleeping Well to Work Safely Certificate (CA1867)

Learning outcomes

- An understanding of the science of sleep.
- An ability to identify the different types of insomnias and parasomnias and how treatment can effectively manage common sleep problems.
- Awareness of behaviours which have a negative impact on sleep and how to manage these.
- The impact that shift-working has on sleep and adaptations which can be made to improve sleep in this at-risk group.
- Knowledge of the different types of Sleep Apnoea (sleep disordered breathing) and the health and safety implications of living with these conditions.

Who is this course suitable for?

Anyone and everyone working globally who has an interest in how improving sleep will lead to short and long-term health benefits and improved safety for individuals, and an increase in productivity, improved safety and a decrease in absenteeism.

What further support is there?

Having completed the course, attendees will have the tools to help their colleagues who have common sleep problems - but may identify individuals within their organisation who have more complex problems (e.g. sleep apnoea/sleep disordered breathing). Sleep Unlimited specialise in the assessment and treatment of these people's conditions and can offer further support if necessary.

“Improving sleep will lead to short and long-term health benefits”

Teaching the World to Sleep, Routledge publishing, Second edition.

Teaching the World to Sleep provides a complete, science-based overview of sleep and sleep problems, from environmental, legal, and technological factors to assessment and treatment options.

Dr David R. Lee introduces the basic scientific concepts involved in sleep and provides a clear description of insomnias and the parasomnias. Teaching the World to Sleep discusses NICE-recommended Cognitive Behavioural Therapy for Insomnia (CBT-I) and the REST programme® and outlines considerations for at-risk groups, sleep and the law, and the application of dreams and dreaming in psychotherapy. This second edition includes a full update on research conducted since the publication of the first edition and includes new information on sleep in the legal setting, the rise of sleep apps and trackers and their impact on our sleep. Dr Lee also considers neurodiversity, sleep in long Covid, rare and unusual sleep disorders and the delivery of treatment using the NHS-recommended stepped-care approach.
